Students are Honest. Last Saturday morning Bill Smith stepped from a barber shop and lo-and-behold he found a crisp dollar bill. Where-upon he promptly re-entered the shop and gave the bill to a patron who had just lost it. Here's to more like Bill.

AN EDITORIAL Solution to Assembly Problem Lies in the Hands of Students

Students need to study. There is no doubt about that. Probably they need to study more. But this is no excuse for studying in the auditorium during the assembly programs.

It is not uncommon to look about in assembly to see some reading a book, others studying notes, some writing a letter home, and others working crossword puzzle or playing that X and O game with a neighbor.

The trouble with this kind of conduct in assembly is that it is discourteous to those on the program, and at the same time is denying the individual the benefit which he should derive from the program.

Oh, you may say, the programs are a bore, and are not worth my time listening to, and I can get more good from reading my lesson for eleven o'clock class. And I wouldn't come to assembly anyway unless I was required to.

If this is true, there is something wrong with the assembly programs. There is something definitely lacking in student interest in the manner of programs given.

The solution may not be in asking students to leave all books and papers outside the auditorium. It may be rather in a change in the type of programs presented. And if the students are not satisfied with their assembly programs, whose responsibility is it to see that they are made more interesting?

Students, you are to blame for that. If you don't like your assembly, why don't you do something about it? If you want to give your own programs, why don't you demand the right to do so?

And with that right, you are challenged to solve these problems of disorderly conduct in your assembly program.

Miss Dykes Gives February Lecture Sunday Afternoon

The first of a series of four lectures to be given during the month of February will be delivered by Miss Mattie M. Dykes, of the College English department, at Residence Hall Sunday.

Miss Dykes will speak on "A Nondescript Monster" with "Terrible Eyes". The lecture will be given at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in Residence Hall. Townspeople, faculty members, and students in the College are cordially invited to attend.

The February Lectures are an annual program sponsored by the College. The lectures will be published in book form at a later date.

Ushers Will Keep Order in Assembly

Ushers for assembly have been provided by the Student Senate, and will function throughout future assembly programs to provide order in leaving the auditorium. This announcement came this week by the choice of the Senators, who believe it is the student's problem to see that common courtesy is observed, and that the class traditions are carried out.

Senate members will be stationed throughout the auditorium, and at the close of the hour, the sections over which they officiate will be expected to conform to regulations set by the Senate. The Senate warns these officers are to have full charge of the conduct in assembly, and offenders will be penalized.

Doctor Advises More Kissing

University of California health officers decreed a sixty-day ban on kissing after eighteen students were stricken with mild cases of influenza, according to the Associated Press. This, Dr. S. L. Katzoff said, was a mistake.

"A good healthy kiss never spread any germs," said Dr. Katzoff, medical director and psychiatrist of the San Francisco Institute of Human Relations. "A genuine kiss generates so much heat it destroys germs. 'If anything,' he added, 'the university ought to advocate more kissing.'"

Quad Aids Fund for Infantile Paralysis

Funds for President Roosevelt's "March of Dimes" campaign have been raised by dinners, speeches, dances, and teas, but the men at the N. Y. A. dormitories used the plain donation method and got results. Headed by Kenneth Crawford, a group of six men, two from each of the three dormitories, contacted everybody staying at the Quad.

They were quite successful in their efforts. In fact they have sent a money order for $8.90 to President Roosevelt at the White House.

Students Name Star "Ideal" Mate

(By the ACP News Service) Flagstaff, Ariz.—Erisella Lane, cinema star, is the ideal mate. That is the unanimous opinion of the twenty-seven male members of Dr. John J. Barton's class in psychology at Arizona State Teachers College here.

The men in the class, after answering detailed questionnaires, selected entertaining, friendly, helpful, cheerful, considerate, beautiful, honest, and intelligent (in that order) as the adjectives most applicable to the perfect wife.

After choosing the desired traits, it was the decision of the group that the embodiment of these characteristics is Miss Lane.

"Haunted House Is Housing Project Now

(By the ACP News Service) College Station, Tex.—Twelve young men happened upon a "haunted" house and a friend and the result is that 1,000 young men are attending college here on 82 cents a day. Everything is included—even tuition and clothing.

Students Do Not Fear War or Final Exams

(By the ACP News Service) War and final examinations seem to hold no fear for psychology students of Georgia Southwestern College. In compiling a "fear list" recently, they listed the following as the things they feared most: Snakes, drunks, water, wild animals, mad dogs, fire, stormy weather, reckless driving, and high altitudes.

Midland College Girls Have Smiling Contest

(By the ACP Press Service) Now that problem is definitely settled, Midland College girls have a real reason for smiling in their contest to select the college's Smile Girl. In the novel competition, students will vote for the girls who have smiles which bring greatest happiness to others while indicating maximum happiness in the owners. We'll bet Germany would have a hard time conducting such a contest!

'H. M. S. Pinafore' Will Sail Stage Early in March

Music Students Will Present Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta

Mr. Hermann N. Schuster, director, has announced the tentative cast for the presentation of "Pinafore", the light opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, which will be given at the College Auditorium March 7 and 8. Students of music at the College compose the tentative cast of the production which will be given two nights with a separate cast for each performance.

The cast is as follows: Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B.—Marvin Gench, Robert Dunnham. Captain Corcoran—Robert Clark, Ralph McMullen.

Boatwain—Ralph Remy, Dwight Sliger. Josephine—Mary Louise Turner, Ross Lee Roark.

Mrs. Crips (Little Buttercup)—Arlene Congdon, Iola Agro. Hebe—Margaret McLaughlin.

The chorus consists of Sir Joseph Porter's sisters, cousins and aunts, and the sailors.

The story of the operetta is quite generally known. "His Majesty's Ship Pinafore," or "The Lass Who Loved a Sailor," as it is subtitled, concerns the love story of Ralph, a humble seaman, and Josephine, daughter of Captain Corcoran, who commands the ship. The situation is further complicated by the fact that Josephine's hand is sought in marriage by Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first lord of the Admiralty—an elderly landsman who is always followed by his admiring 'sisters and his cousins and his aunts'.

Gilbert and Sullivan were masters of satire. Gilbert, the librettist, made fun of all the most sacred institutions—in Pinafore, for example, the British navy—and Sullivan carried the elaborate musical traditions of the day by having the most absurd bits of poetry sung in exceedingly dramatic and operatic style.

The production of "Pinafore" is one of the major projects of the music students for the year. At present there is rehearsal every night with principals, and chorus practices are conducted several times a week.

Triumph and relief are painted in their faces, as they spur on to victory, their team, and perhaps the Conference title.

Students Rally to Preserve NYA Program Which Faces Possible Cut

Reduction Will Affect Seriously Youth Who Need Aid in College

(By the NSFA News Service) If the present plans for cutting the appropriation to the National Youth Administration go through, approximately 40,000 college students will find themselves in the position of "the little man who wasn't there" when next school term comes around. Funds will be lacking to continue aiding them.

The President has recommended to Congress that the appropriation for the National Youth Administration for the fiscal year 1940-41 be included in the regular budget as a part of the appropriation of the Federal Security Agency. Along with practically every other agency except the Army and Navy, the NYA will suffer a cut. NYA will be reduced by $15,000,000.

Most of the appropriation will go toward the maintenance of work projects for out-of-school youth, and the lack of funds will hit the college and graduate age group the hardest. Approximately 130,000 students were helped this year, but if the cut goes through, only 80,000 will be aided.

NSFA Resolution From the very beginning of the NYA, the National Student Federation has played an important part in urging that it be continued and extended to meet the needs of young people. At the last Congress meeting at the University of Minnesota the following resolution was unanimously carried:

Gospel Team Will Go to Union Star

The Y. M. C. A. Gospel Team will present a religious program at the Christian Church in Union Star at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Speakers for the occasion will be Leland Hamilton, president of the College Y. M. C. A., and Jean Schneider. The program will be in connection with a special youth observation program being held at the Union Star church.

New Teacher Named

Gladys Martin has been elected to teach in the grades at Laredo to succeed Eleanor Hunt who graduated from the College last year.

"Whereas there are students in our schools who are in need of financial assistance and whereas the NYA has proven to be a valuable aid both financially and educationally to young people and whereas democracy and education go hand in hand—and that by increasing the educational opportunities to every section of youth in our population we can act to strengthen our democracy, be it therefore resolved that we are in favor of continuation and extension of NYA. We also favor student participation in the administration of NYA programs and projects."

Students to the Rescue The first beginnings of the NYA back in 1935 under the old Federal Emergency Relief Act were built around college student aid. It seems improper, therefore, that the present budget should so seriously endanger what was once its only function. With all its resources, the NYA is only able to serve approximately 60,000 American young people. Statistics from the American Youth Commission have shown that there are over 5,000,000 young people out of school and out of work. How fare American youth if the program of the NYA (which is only making a small but noteworthy inroad on this figure) shall be hampered?

College student leaders and others interested in or affected by such a dangerous cut are beginning to make plans to write their Congressman and to seek every other effective means of making their needs known and their voices heard. Hearings are expected soon on NYA.

Students to Give Short Talks at SS-IRC Meeting

Six short talks will be given by members at the meeting of the Social Science-International Relations Club Tuesday evening, February 6.

Russell Shelton will discuss the topic "Fear of Japan in the United States"; Dutch, French and British Control of Specific Areas"; Dwight Gates will speak on "American Japanese Relations during the Last Year"; Glenn Edmonson will discuss "Principles Upon Which Peace Tomorrow Must Be Built"; Nancy Western will address the club on the topic "The Economic Aspects of Tomorrow's Peace, if Peace is to be Permanent"; Edgar Abbott will speak on "The Hull Trade Program—Past and Future"; and Taylor Nicholas will discuss "The League of Nations in the Present Crisis."

Ike Howell Expresses Thanks for Sympathy

Having returned from attending the funeral of his father George Howell of Columbus, Georgia, Ike Howell, Bearcat basketball player, contacted the Northwest Missouriian, expressing his gratitude for the flowers and letters of sympathy he has received. Flowers were sent by the Athletic Committee and coaches Stalcup and Milner, the "M" club, and the basketball squad.

Percy Grainger, world famous pianist and composer will play in the College Auditorium on Thursday, February 8, at 8 o'clock in the evening as the Major Entertainment for the Winter Quarter.

College Students will be admitted on their activity tickets and reserved seats may be obtained free of charge from Kuchs Bros., if reservations are made before 6 o'clock Thursday evening. A small charge will be made for reserved seats at the doors of the auditorium. General admission will be $1 and students from the high schools of this district will be admitted for 40 cents in groups of ten, if application is made to Mr. Roy Ferguson.

Mr. Grainger has won special recognition as a composer and arranger of folk-song themes, his arrangement of the song "Country Gardens" being the most successful. He is a native Australian and gained early fame in tours throughout Europe. During the World War he came to the United States and became an American citizen. Since then, he has emphasized the development of a national musical style characteristic of America in order to foster and preserve American Music.

In a letter to Mr. Paschal Monk, chairman of the department of Music, Mr. Grainger stated that he would be delighted to meet the music students of the College. He added that he would be glad to do anything for the benefit of the student body during his visit.

The program will include classical and modern music as well as compositions and arrangements by Mr. Grainger himself. The complete list follows:

1. Fantasia and Fugue, G minor
2. Sonata in B minor, op. 10, No. 5
3. Allegro maestoso, Scherzo; Largo, Finale
4. a) "After a Dream" Set by Grainger
- b) "The Fountain" Ravel
- c) "Moonlight" Debussy
- d) "Toccata" Debussy
- e) "The Merry King"
- f) "Scotch Strathspey and Reel" Set by Grainger
- g) Lullaby from "Tribute to a Star" Set by Grainger
- h) "Magnificat" (Irish) March "Jig" Stanford-Grainger

A committee in charge of publicity consisting of Mr. Monk, chairman, Lois Barrett and Robert Poynter, has set the goal of having ninety-five per cent of the student body in attendance at Mr. Grainger's recital. A count will be made at the doors leading to the auditorium on the evening of the performance and the results will be published in the Northwest Missouriian.

Virgil Klontz Gets Correspondent Post

Virgil Klontz, sophomore at the College, has been appointed special correspondent to the State N. Y. A. newspaper at Jefferson City. It was announced here this week. Klontz was appointed to the position by Mr. Kenneth Steele, supervisor of the Resident Training Center. The state paper will carry news and features of particular interest to N. Y. A. administrators throughout the country. It will be published bi-weekly.

Writeups Must Be Done Today

Seniors are again urged to immediately leave their class records with Dick Dempsey, editor of the Tower. This information is necessary to make a complete record to go with each senior's picture in the 1940 Tower.

Each person is requested to give the degree which he is working toward, any offices which he might have held, and organizations which he has belonged to while in College. This information must be placed in the box at the Tower bulletin board by 5 o'clock today.

Music Students Will Present Recital

The second in a series of recitals by students of the Conservatory of Music will be presented in the College auditorium on the evening of February 20, at 7:30 o'clock. Pupils of Miss Janet Leeder, Miss Jacinta Kampmeier, Miss Marian Kerr, Mr. John Geiger, and Mr. H. N. Schuster will take part in the program. The students and faculty are cordially invited to attend.

A View of the NewsBy Edgar Abbott

Current news holds an important place today in the equipment of the teacher of the social studies. The importance of teaching current happenings has gained in popularity during the last decade. Until now it is regarded by some teachers as the most important topic for class discussion. They argue that the principles and historical facts can be obtained from the texts and that a knowledge of the practice of these principles be obtained from the news.

No matter what ideas are entertained about the teaching of current events, they should be taught daily and not have a definite period set aside for their discussion.

The average high school student does not have the interest for studying the social studies that he has for other subjects. Hence, the social studies teacher's job is more difficult than that of a coach like the physical sciences, industrial arts, physical education, and mathematics. It is the teachers job to develop in the pupil an interest for the type of government he is to have and protect.

The social sciences teacher, like every other teacher, must help to develop citizenship. A person can be a good citizen only if he knows his duties and responsibilities. In the United States, the good citizen must be prepared to vote intelligently, know the history of the Nation, have at least a partial understanding of the organization of the government, must know the types of men to be elected to offices.

Some of the devices that the social studies instructor may use to instill interest in his pupils are: posters, debates, essays, editorials, reports, and scrapbooks. For example, the American History student is going to learn much better how his early forefathers dressed if he makes a poster showing the American pioneer than if he only reads the text.

Perhaps the greatest interest developer is the use of current events. A newspaper is usually accessible to all pupils some time during the day. Personalities in the news help to stimulate the interest in national, state, or local governmental affairs. Nearly every boy or girl reads the comics and sport pages. They should not be condemned for this, but encouraged to read other articles that develop citizenship with as much enthusiasm.

Bearcats Hold to First Place in M. I. A. A. Conference Race

Defeat Warrensburg and Springfield This Week on Road Trip; Play Rolla Tonight

Mule Contest Is Close Game For Stalcup Quintet

Coch Wilbur Stalcup and his powerful Maryville Bearcats proved by doing, this week, as they won both games on the toughest road trip of the current season. The Springfield Bears and the Warrensburg Mules felt the bloody scratch of the Bearcats, then heard their terrific growl—a victory growl.

The last victory was the Bearcat's fifteenth in as many starts. It was also conference victory number six with no losses. Maryville's position remained the same in the league standings—first place.

An overflow crowd packed the new Walter E. Morrow gymnasium for what Warrensburg sport authorities call, one of the roughest games played in Warrensburg this season. With this game went Warrensburg's hopes for a fourth straight conference title.

Harold Hull scored the first point of the game when he connected from the free throw line. It was not very long until the Warrensburg offense began to click and in short order the Mules were leading 9 to 2. Helms, Warrensburg center, sank eight of the Mules' nine points during the first half. After the first twelve minutes of the game, Maryville collected her offensive talent and brought the score up slowly and Bob Rogers sank a long shot just before the intermission to place Maryville ahead 19 to 9.

During the first half Hull hit five of his eight points. After hitting the free throw, Rogers tipped the ball in for two points. Driving in hard he made the net to end his scoring for the first period.

Coming up from the rest period somewhat refreshed, Don Johnson, who did an excellent job covering Law, Mule captain, tossed the ball into the basket on a follow-in and the score stood at 9-12.

Again Hull was fouled, was awarded two shots, and connected for one. Heller sank a long one and the score was now Maryville 13, Warrensburg 11. Dale Hackett swung in from the side to hit one for the Bearcats and Hull sank another charity toss.

The Central Missourians took a few shots of their own and Helms hit a free throw. Once more Warrensburg recovered, the ball. Heller sighted took a long, arched throw. It swished through the net. Bob Rogers took a pass and sank one for the Maryvillians leaving the score standing at 18 to 14 with Maryville on top.

Vernon Law hit his only field goal of the game as he added two points to the Warrensburg score. Crockett fouled Hull and went out of the game on personals. Hull made the shot. Helms hit one from close in and brought the Mules up to within one point of their opponents.

Maryville's starting forward, Harold Hutcherson, and Rogers hit set-ups and concluded Maryville's scoring. Gibbs let go with one from way out and the shot brought the crowd onto its feet as the ball swished through the mesh. Hutcherson was fouled but missed his shot. Hackett committed a foul against Law, who dropped the ball through the hoop.

Bearcats Will Meet Rockhurst Hawks In Second Encounter There Tuesday

Downing the Springfield Bears last Monday night was not so much of a task. Springfield jumped into an early lead but gradually faded as the Bearcats drove in fast and took advantage of free throws to take a 15 to 12 lead at the intermission. During the second half the game continued at a fast pace.

The McDonald-coached men moved up to within one point of the Northwest Missourians. Then the Maryville cagers turned on the Bears with the charity line besides his one field minutes and ran their victory margin up to nine points.

Dale Hackett, Maryville guard, led the Bearcats in scoring as he packed away five field goals and one free throw totaling eleven tallies. Hackett sank eight out of eight from the charity line besides his one field goal. This feat ranked him in second place with ten points as far as scoring was concerned.

Graves and Burrows tied for individual honors on the Southwest Missouri team with six points each. Mitchell, Ball, Lechner, Woods, and Crawford had their names recorded in the scoring column for the Springfield hoopers.

Coch Stalcup used twelve players in the game compared to nine Bears who went into the fray. The victory was Maryville's fifth conference victory in this season's loop race.

Maryville Tries For Sixteenth Consecutive Win

The time is 9 o'clock. The place is the Maryville gymnasium. The event is the return game with the Rolla Miners. As the Bearcats come prancing out onto the floor tonight they will be entering their sixteenth game of the season and will be trying to make it their sixteenth consecutive victory.

Maryville's Bearcats were guests of the Miners January 9, but they made the evening miserable for the Engineers. The Green and White wave swept easily over the hard fighting Rolla men by a score of 44 to 24. Harold Hull, leading Bearcat scorer, made 11 points on his 12 attempts from the free throw line.

Cock was high point man for the School of Mines. He hit three field goals and four free throws, putting his total at 10. Other leading players were Kamper, forward who scored five points but went out of the game on fouls; Bruce, center who jumped in two charity tosses and one long shot; Watts, another forward who had two field goals to his credit; and Carroll, who made one and one.

Coach Wilbur Stalcup brought his men home in good shape. No injuries were sustained on the road trip that proved so exceedingly victorious for the Maryvillians. All of the Maryville players are ready for tonight contest with the MSM.

Dormitory Reaches Finals, Defeating Newman Club 59-17

Proving that they were the team to perhaps take the intramural title from the thrice victorious Alpha Sigs, the Dormitory team entered the finals by defeating the Newman Club last Monday night in a walkaway. Led by Mavis Farmer and Phyllis Watsabaugh, who have played on the same team since in high school, the Dorm amassed a total of 59 points to the Newman Club's 17.

Beginning with a basket for both Farmer and Watsabaugh in the first two minutes of play, these Iowa forwards and Zoe Lightfoot, another Iowa lass, poured the ball through the hoop nearly as fast as the scorers could write it down. In fact, they made an average of nearly two points per minute for the remainder of the game.

The Newman Club girls, not quite so experienced, and wholly outclassed, put up a game fight but were unable to stop the march of the Iowa scoring section or to match their ability.

The Dorm girls held the Newman Club organization scoreless all through the second half until the last fifteen seconds of play when Helen Gorsuch tipped in the basket that tied her for high scorer on her team with Helen Baldwin, each having eight points.

Farmer was high for the Hall team with 26 points.

Starting line-up for the Dormitory team: Forwards; Mavis Farmer, Phyllis Watsabaugh, and Zoe Lightfoot. Guards; Geraldine Jullin, Martha Miner, and Captain Margaret Ellen Prettyman.

For the Newman Club: Forwards; Helen Gorsuch, Helen Baldwin. Captain Dorothy Triplett. Guards; Dorothy Farnham, Mary Ellen Crank, and Willie Belle Carter.

Officials for Monday's night game were Marianna Obermiller and Vida Bernau. The basketball manager for this season is Virginia Ramsay.

Pres. Hutchins Says Football Injures Study

Chicago University President Explains Dropping of Sport

(By The ACP News Service.)

Chicago, Ill.—Amid thunderous cheers of approval by the student body, the University of Chicago's President Robert Maynard Hutchins has delivered a vigorous indictment of football and an explanation of why the sport was dropped from the Midway campus program.

"There is no doubt on the whole that football has been a major handicap to education in the United States," President Hutchins affirmed. "I think it is a good thing for the country to have one important university discontinue football."

Continuing, President Hutchins said: "Though football is a wonderful game for the spectator, it is not good for the participant as many other sports. It is time-consuming, and the time is consumed just when the player ought to be devoting himself to the new courses begun with the opening of the academic year. Other sports develop cooperation, team spirit, sportsmanship, and fair play just as well as football."

At a special student forum, only two of about 30 eligible to participate in the discussion opposed the discontinuance of football as an intercollegiate sport.

College Football Season Closes With Many New Records

(By The ACP News Service.)

Intercollegiate football—greatest crowd-attraction to fall collegiate sports—closed its 1939-40 season in a grand banquet of bowl games—a year that hung up many new records of one sort or another.

Here are interesting facts and figures on the gridiron season just closed:

Field-goals and points after touchdown provided the margin of victory in 208 intercollegiate pigskin battles. This is 60 more than last year.

There were 184 tie games in the season. Attendance at college games rose one per cent over the previous season. Greatest gains were in the south (11 per cent) and in the Rocky Mountain area (19 per cent).

With a record of more than 400,000 home-game paid admissions, U. C. L. A. had the largest "gate" in the nation.

There was a drop of 25 per cent in football fatalities since last year.

Coach Asks for Next Thanksgiving Date

(By The ACP Press Service.)

Illinois Wesleyan University's football manager believes in taking no chances—so he recently wired President Roosevelt: "I and hundreds of other football managers over the country would like to know the exact date for Thanksgiving in 1940."

A presidential secretary wired back: "The date will be November 21, 1940."

Bearcat Claws...

...by ken tebow

Close ball games may be exciting, thrilling, or what have you; but I'll take those twenty points that Paul McReynolds spoke about a few days hence. Of course, your reporter is indeed happy that the Bearcats came through with the win. Should not everyone be?

Warrensburg put on the appearance at times that they would end up on the long end of the score but it just did not turn out that way. It has to be said that the Warrensburg club is a fine ball club, but so are the Bearcats. And why not?

Any coach would be just as proud of the squad as Coach Stalcup is, only most coaches just do not have the squad. Just running down through their names, Hull, Hackett, Hutcherson, Rogers, Weary, Johnson and Johnson, Insley, Goslee, Walker, Salmon, Howell, Alpert, Donahue, Wiseman, and Gregory; you just do not find a finer bunch of fellows deserve plenty of credit for such a powerful foe as the Mules. Especially, downing them for two consecutive times.

Don Johnson did a very fine job of guarding Vernon Law, who is considered an outstanding player from more than one angle. Harold Hull, otherwise known as "Peanuts," held Gibbs down to practically nothing.

Neither team could make their shots count. If they could have made them count the winning margin would probably have been about twenty points. Not wishing to do any griping but let me tell you one incident about a Maryville player and his inability to make his shots connect. The tall Maryville cager shot the ball three times from off the backboard and finally hit on either the fourth or fifth try.

Helms did a pretty good job of sinking his attempts during the first half when he counted for eight points. Incidentally, the Mules got only nine markers during that first half. Bob Rogers sank a nice shot from the side of the court just before the first period ended to put Maryville in the lead by one point.

Ramblers Narrowly Defeat Phi Sigs

After getting a slow start the Ramblers came through to win over the Phi Sigs 25 to 22. Ostrus and Stewart provided the spark for the winners while Stubbs and Edmonson played good ball for the Phi Sigs.

By winning the Ramblers made it four wins against one setback while it was the third loss for the Phi Sigs with two wins.

The game was played Wednesday, January 24.

Poop Gang Loses to Cream Puffs 22-18

The Cream Puffs won a close victory over the Poop Gang 22 to 18. McKay led the Cream Puff's attack with thirteen points. Davis, Hellerich, and Rizzo topped the Poop Gang in points.

It was the Cream Puffs fourth win while the loss was the Poop Gang's third.

The game was played Monday, January 29.

The Bluebeards defeated the Hash Slingers to win 27 to 24 Monday night. Skarda scored ten points to lead the winners. Brightwell outscored the losers and with assistance from Paxton and Feurt kept the Hash Slingers in the game.

The outcome made it three wins for the Bluebeards and three losses for the Hash Slingers.

Bearcats Defeat Rockhurst Hawks Decisively 42-18

Kansas City Team is Overpowered by Fast Machine of Bearcats

Showing superb play in all departments, the Bearcats befuddled the Kansas City Rockhurst Hawks into a 42 to 18 defeat on the home court last Friday night to mark up their thirteenth straight win.

Guards Bob Rogers and Dale Hackett demonstrated how scoring could be done when Bob hit four baskets in a row and Dale connected from the side of the court and under the basket.

Coch Stalcup gave several of the second stringers a chance to break into the scoring column in the non-conference game. Weary, Goslee, and Insley saw action at the start of the game, and Salmon, E. Johnson, Walker, and Alpert were in action before the game was over. The first five, if they may be so termed—Hull, Hutcherson, Hackett, D. Johnson, and Rogers—also were in action.

The superior Bearcats jumped into an early 6 to 2 lead and were never threatened. They lead 29 to 12 at halftime and scored just about as they pleased throughout the game.

The professor's specimens have proved to be twenty-five per cent smaller than any other ants known to man.

Good Health Habits Essential to Artistic Success, Says Grainger

Pianist Diets, Exercises, Takes Walks Regularly to Keep in Good Condition

Both diet and exercise are of the first importance for keeping fit and for an artist wishing to give his best to the world, declares Percy Grainger, the pianist who will appear in a recital in the College auditorium, Thursday evening, February 8.

Mr. Grainger also believes that energy is the cure for most evils, and in most cases the greatest pianists, such as Paderewski and Hofmann are distinguished from the lesser by their greater energy. Technique is acquired and preserved by the most part stiff hands, wrists, and fingers, and working at a slow tempo. His practice is so vigorous that he states that he needs no other physical exercise.

Football, wrestling, long walks, trotting, swimming, and tennis are all favorite sports of Mr. Grainger, but he has time for only trotting, which he does instead of walking. It was his habit of always trotting that caused the people of London to call him the "trotting pianist."

Keeps a Promise
Percy Grainger's tastes in food are greatly influenced by the fact that he promised his mother as a boy, never to touch alcohol or tobacco, and he has always kept these promises.

"I never eat meat or fish, and I never drink tea or coffee as they are unpleasant to me and I consider them unhealthy," Mr. Grainger says. His favorite drink is cold, unboiled milk mixed with boiling water half and half. Boiled rice, oatmeal, grey and brown bread (sour if possible) with butter or jam, fruit, wheat cakes with syrup, pies, plain sweet puddings, and nuts are his favorite foods.

The pianist's meals are always eaten regularly, for he does not believe in altering one's normal habits because of concerts. He never eats after concerts, but sleeps as soon as possible.

He Is Not Nervous
Mr. Grainger states that he is not conscious of nerves or ill health in any form, and he considers this due to the fact that he has always carried out the health program which his mother laid down for him.

This program is: Early hours, cool rooms, thin clothes, no stimulants, plain foods, and the greatest possible immersion in mental and bodily efforts, excitement and interest during waking hours.

The philosophy of this man is that over-work does not exist as a danger to health provided it does not interfere with sufficient sleep.

M Club Members Will Hold Dance Following Game

The M club is an organization of men on the campus who have won a letter in some form of athletics. Bill Bernau is president of the M club and is in charge of the arrangements for the dance.

College Surveys Student Opinion Toward Professors

(By The NSFA News Service)
An interesting experiment is being carried out by the student council of Colorado State College where a survey is being conducted of student opinion toward professors. Mimeographed questionnaires concerning instructors were distributed during the first few minutes of each class period during the two days of the survey, with special students appointed to collect the blanks and tabulate them. Results of the personal ratings of teachers are to be tabulated and made available for use by the department heads in recommending changes in personnel and methods of instruction.

Ratings included evaluation of the professors' knowledge of his subject, manner of presentation, lecture organization, assignments, methods of grading, and personal traits. A place for additional comments will also be provided so that the student may make any recommendation that he wishes.

According to a report carried in a college newspaper, the survey is receiving the support of both faculty members and administration.

High School Seniors Are Church Guests

A group of Horace Mann High seniors were guests at the weekly meeting of the Men's Forum at the First Methodist Church Monday. They were Helen Wright, Esther Jean Hall, David Boyer and Russell Penn.

We have always known that headless self-interest was bad, morals; we know that it is bad economics. —Franklin D. Roosevelt

On Second Thought By Eleanor Calfee

Have you ever experienced the altruistic desire to do good deeds? And if you have, what did you do about it?

Perhaps you actually succeeded in carrying out your motive, and patting yourself smugly on the back, relaxed with a nice feeling of well-being.

In most cases, however, it is probably better that you let the incentive to be noble expire quietly. After all, it isn't so easy to do a good action. Look at what happened to poor Don Quixote! Even Sir Walter Raleigh was eventually beheaded.

Mr. Edwin Potchecary further illustrated the difficulty of applying Boy Scout principles. In Stacy Aumonier's story, Mr. Potchecary started out one morning, filled with the pure desire to do good. He decided to take a holiday from his fish business to do a "Sir Launfal-like deed."

His first attempt was to place some money in the purse of a poor woman who was riding on the bus. She thought he was trying to rob her, and consequently he was thrown off the bus.

He tried again by offering aid to a shabby man who was sitting in a park looking at the ground. The man angrily ordered a gatekeeper to throw him out. The gatekeeper informed Mr. Potchecary that this man was a scientist who was trying to solve some riddle of the universe; Mr. Potchecary's interruption had upset his train of thought.

All day Mr. Potchecary wandered through the streets trying to do a good deed, but on every hand he was viewed with suspicion and rebuffed. Finally, a bitter rancor entered his soul. Wearily he started home. On the way, he had to pass his neighbor's house. Mr. Potchecary hated the Peels—chiefly because they had a beautiful henhouse and forty-five hens. Mr. Potchecary had only five hens.

A sudden fierce desire to destroy something entered his mind. Hurriedly, he broke the lock on the henhouse door, let the hens out, broke up their feeding pans, scattered the sacks of feed in every direction, and slipped quietly home.

He lay down to rest. After a while his wife brought him some food and some news. The Peels' hen house had just burned to the ground. The cause of the fire was unknown; but by the kindness of someone unknown, the hens were saved because they had been turned out of the hen house.

Mr. Potchecary turned purple; he spilled the hot gruel in his lap.

Schedule Is Key to Position, Pope Says

Playing up the idea that one's schedule is the key to his position in life, the Rev. Kenneth Pope addressed a meeting of the religious organizations of the campus, Monday, Jan. 22. Representatives of the Newman Club, the Y. M. C. A., and the Y. W. C. A., faculty members, and Maryville ministers listened to Rev. Mr. Pope's discussion.

"We can best show our belief in God by really knowing why we do and how we do the things which we do," Mr. Pope said. He maintained that each person has his own religion in his own sense and that the job of all is to bridge the gap which keeps people in a state of skepticism in regard to each other.

Students at Horace Mann High Write Skits for Radio Broadcast

Radio Is New Tool in Teaching English at Laboratory School

"What is a radio script, anyway?" was the question asked by a boy in an English II class in the Horace Mann high school. A group of five students who had written a dramatic sketch of a Missouri legend, volunteered to read the script to demonstrate how sophomores in high school could write a radio program.

The script was a dramatic play built about the story of the incident from which the saying, "I'm from Missouri!" is supposed to have originated. After the group finished reading the script, the response of the class was to ask for more scripts from other students who had written sketches of this sort. At the close of the six weeks, every student in the class had written a radio script.

This method of teaching English is a long step from the old method of memorizing facts and reciting them to the teacher. In the Horace Mann high school the students are getting the same facts as the students of a generation ago, but they are getting these facts through the medium of the tools of today, such as the radio, movies, and the daily newspaper.

That students should learn by doing, in an accepted fact, today, but this idea is carried a step farther in the laboratory school. Students learn by doing things with the materials at hand and by doing things in which they are really interested.

The novel, Silas Marner, was read by the sophomore class during the past six weeks, and it was from this novel that the material for the building of radio scripts was gained. After the story was read, students wrote a quiz program of questions from the story, and a "Battle of the Sections" was carried on among the three sections of English II. The use of the radio in teaching second year English is only one example of the many ways in which the radio may be used by the teacher.

In connection with the use of the radio as a teaching device, the students of the high school have organized, a club called the Radio Guild, which meets once a week for the purpose of writing radio sketches for presentation in the high school assembly or for broadcasting.

During the present school year, the students have written and presented the following broadcasts: "The Old and the New in Education," "The Main Line to Everywhere," and "A Story of English," at KFQP in St. Joseph, and "Crystal Gazing" at KWO in Jefferson City.

Winter morning impressions. Gee, the floor's cold this morning. I'll bet it's awful outside. Turn on the radio and see how cold it is. announcer's voice. "This morning it's twenty below, by tonight it is expected to be twenty five below; and tomorrow it's going to really get cold." Sanguine, isn't he? ...dash for breakfast...coffee tastes good on a morning like this...Feel like one should keep the St. Bernards ready today...that walk to the gymnasium is the coldest stretch on earth...snub everyone unceremoniously...In the first place I can't see them, and in the second place I wouldn't recognize them if I could...all the students and some of the faculty look like men from Mars...concerned cash for the seats by the radiators in the classrooms...students packed in the south door lobby trying to stir up enough courage to face the frigid blasts...janitors have no trouble with cigaret butts on the front walk...general impression of the last two weeks or more. BRR-R-R-R...

After lauding the Warrensburg Canaries last week I felt a little ashamed of myself for not mentioning the fine work the Green and White Peppers did at the Cape game week before last. Their baton drill was one of the most elaborate that we've seen on the court in a long time and one that showed a lot of work and time had been expended on it. The girls were capably coached by our Don Wilson, whom Mr. Surrey made clear, is not a Green and White Pepper. In addition to coaching the girls in their drill, Don gave a striking exhibition of dexterity with his lighted baton. Let's have more of this.

And while we're indulging in free third page advertising, I'd like to mention that the Barkzave have a stunt up their respective green knit sleeves that is supposed to be a good one. They had planned to present it at the Warrensburg game, but were overcome by hospitality. Be looking for this stunt in the near future.

I've just been into the auditorium to see if I couldn't pick up something at the Pinafore rehearsal that would be good copy for this column. It's really work this fine Saturday morning, and I'm feeling rather discouraged as far as the ideas go.

Well, what did I find in the auditorium? The chorus? Yes, Pinafore! No. Instead of industrious rehearsal I saw, to my astonishment, Bob Clark, Arlene Congdon, Ralph Remy, Frank Baker, Jr., and one or two others having a semi-shag-square dance on the stage. After this broke up the little group started singing "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and "Nelly was a Lady" in the best barber shop quartet style.

Now, there is no such dancing and capering as Mr. Clark was leading, nor no close harmony such as Mr. Remy was leading in the production "Pinafore," but everyone, including Mr. Schuster was having a good time, and in spite of this, I'll wager that the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta is a musical treat that you won't want to miss.

Guess I'll go back in and listen a bit more to the merriment in the auditorium, then to the library for a book or so, and then home to see if that badly needed weekly check from home has arrived.

Nationwide Bridge Benefits Planned

New York, Jan. 31 (Special)—Hendrik William Van Loon, national chairman of the "Bridge to Finland" committee of the Finnish Relief Fund, has asked American university students and college groups throughout the country to hold benefit bridge parties the week-end of February 2-4, or any time within the following two weeks.

"Clubs, organizations and individuals in communities everywhere are finding that bridge benefits are a natural and entertaining way of raising money for the suffering women and children of Finland, and I feel that there are many college students who would like to participate in this way," the well-known writer and lecturer declared.

Newspaper Reporter Visits Faculty in Search of Modern Ideal College Student

Instructors Have Formed Opinions He Does Discover

Consequently No One Was Caught Off His Guard When Questioned

By Robert Flowers
(Missourian Feature Writer)

What is the ideal college student? Students in the College may not have a very definite idea of what the "ideal college student" should be, but members of the faculty have formed their own ideas on the subject. Consequently few of them were caught off guard when a Missourian reporter appeared to ask the question, "What is your idea of the ideal college student?"

Of the numerous faculty members, (selected at random) who were asked this question, two expressed their ideas on the subject in a single sentence. Others, while fully as emphatic in their answers to the question, expanded their definitions to include definite qualities which could not be included under more general headings.

Significantly enough, not one of the faculty members failed to stress the desire to learn as a primary outstanding quality of the ideal student. Others stressed citizenship, social relationships and attitudes, mental alertness to campus and extra-campus happenings, religious activity, cooperativeness, personal traits and tastes (dress and personal cleanliness, for example), use of leisure and maintenance of a proper balance between academic and vocational pursuits, and extra-curricular activities. None of them reacted negatively to the question, but replied positively with many interesting comments on the ideal student as they, personally, conceived him (or her) to be. The replies were even more interesting when individual faculty responses were compared with others within the group.

For example, Mr. J. L. Zwingle and Mr. T. E. Dorn both expressed themselves with single, direct compressed comments which went directly to the heart of the matter, and yet left nothing, or very little, unsaid. Mr. Zwingle's comment stresses the desire to learn. Mr. Dorn's, equally comprehensive, stresses constant struggle for improvement as an outstanding quality of the ideal student.

In Mr. Zwingle's own words: "The ideal student has a great intellectual curiosity—a burning desire to learn, as well as all the other desirable qualities which would make for the ideal person."

Compare this with the reply made by Mr. Dorn:

"The ideal student is one who continually makes a critical analysis of himself, both as to study habits and personality, and is conscientiously striving for improvement, using his findings as a guide."

Other faculty members made more exhaustive analysis of the ideal student in making their replies. Dr. Smith, and Mr. Cooper both listed as desirable qualities, not only those which were listed in a paragraph near the beginning of this article, but many others.

Dr. Smith emphasized as desirable qualities, the physical, mental, and emotional health of the student.

"The ideal student, as I see him," said Miss Smith, "is a self-directing personality. That is, he is capable of taking responsibility for his own present and future. He will ask for help, but he will not need to be led. He has clarified his purposes in getting a College education. In other words he not only knows why he is here, but what he is here for. He knows his weak points in personality and in scholarship, and has worked out and has put into operation a constructive program for improving his weak points. He makes the most of his personal appearance and manners, and is constantly striving to improve both. In short, his mode of life is not that of living by rules and regulations but rather by a personal program of carrying out high standards and ideals."

To the qualifications listed by Miss Smith, which others duplicated, Mr. Cooper added the need for a proper consideration of the student's future life as a member of society, and for keeping abreast of current happenings in community, state, and national affairs. Miss James thought

Scoop College Out of Snow and Earn Keep Is Watchword of Some People

Scoop! Scoop! Northwest Missouri has a scoop. The weather man is responsible for the biggest scoop of the year.

Well perhaps if you are a bit muddled we should explain how it all came about.

From the last week in December to the first of this week there was not a single day when the thermometer was above the freezing point. In the meantime the weatherman has been hitting the mark with a forecast of snow almost every day or two.

Consequently, with snow on the ground and more snow falling, people on the campus are scooping out. About twenty inches have fallen to date. According to records in Mr. Tad Reid's office there are approximately 58,112 square feet of side walks connecting the many buildings on the campus. Don Hepburn, campus man, has charge of removing the snow from the walks and paths. By using a team of mules with a snow-plow and by having several men helping with shovels, Mr. Hepburn has managed to keep them fairly clean.

Estimating that the snow is about ten per cent water and that twenty inches have fallen this month, the men have removed at least three hundred tons of snow from the walks. But, on top of that, the snow has drifted and the walks have had to be recleaned several times.

About fifty pounds of ice is commonly used to freeze a gallon and one half can of ice-cream. Three hundred tons of snow which is 600,000 pounds of ice, would freeze 18,000 gallons of ice-cream. This would be eighteen gallons for each student in the College. That ought to last the students for several days and have enough left over for the faculty too.

Recording Machine Records Words From Student Concerning "Prexie"

Mr. Saylor Contends That This Record Is Not for Sale Though

"Do not take it for granted that 'Prexie' is a wise man or a good man just because he happens to be president. Look him over; size him up as you would a classmate. Perhaps he is a strutting, pompous windbag. Plenty of college presidents are. Well, decide for yourself whether he is saying anything or whether he is just roaring platitudes. If he is commonplace and dull, nine times out of ten professors will be commonplace and dull too, since dull college presidents are terrified of intelligent professors."

that the ideal student would be one "who takes enough interest in his work to be responsible for his subject matter and at the same time to participate in a reasonable number of activities." To this, Dr. Lowery added the idea that the ideal student "will of his own initiative and for his own pleasure seek eagerly and thoroughly to overcome his own ignorance."

Mr. J. N. Saylor added a similar note of stress on the desire of learning, but with added emphasis: "The ideal student is not only capable of independent thought, but is willing to indulge in it." From all of this, one might easily assume, the ideal student is certainly the kind of student that, if he existed, would gladden the heart

These are the latest words that have been recorded by Mr. J. Norval Saylor on the new recording machine. The recording was made in a physical science class that was studying sound.

Mr. Saylor was demonstrating the principle of the phonograph and he asked for someone to volunteer to have their voice recorded. Lacking volunteers, he called on one of the girls to read from a text book.

A book was handed to the reader. The preceding paragraph is what she chanced to read. It was taken from an essay by Percy Marks entitled, "Advice to Freshmen", and is printed in one of the freshman English textbooks.

Mr. Saylor stated that the record would not be for sale.

of the most saddened and disillusioned of the most saddened and disillusioned college professor. Unfortunately for students and faculty alike, the ideal student, as such, does not exist. But, fortunately we still have faculty members who not only can, but will, continue to hold up before us the ideal, which may some day, when the millennium arrives, be attained.

Virgil Elliott Speaks

Virgil Elliott, vice-president of the College Y. M. C. A., gave a talk last night on a proposed combination of religious organizations on the campus, at a cabinet meeting of the association. A discussion of the topic followed the talk.

Survey Indicates More Students Favor Roosevelt

Thirty-Nine Per Cent Would Have President Serve for Third Term

(By Student Opinion Surveys)
Austin, Texas, February 2—With political winds already blowing in this election year of 1940, Franklin D. Roosevelt finds himself with an ever increasing number of followers who would like to see him run for a third term. But this group, among the rank and file of voters as well as among college students, is still in the minority.

The Student Opinion Surveys of America sent its staff of interviewers on campuses of all descriptions everywhere in the United States to ask a scientific cross section of collegians, "Would you like to see Roosevelt run for a third term?" The results, gathered and tabulated at the University of Texas for all the cooperating newspaper members of the organization, show that the President has picked up more than ten percentage points on his third term popularity during the last year. Comparisons of this type are possible for the first time now that the Surveys have been operating without interruption since December of 1938. Following is the complete record on this subject that has been kept by the Surveys:

A Third Term for F.D.R.	Yes	No
December, 1938.....	27.2%	72.8%
January, 1939.....	28.2%	71.8%
November, 1939.....	31.8%	68.2%
Now.....	39.5%	60.5%

This series of studies reveals a remarkably close resemblance to the index kept by the Gallup poll on the same topic. Although general opinion has always outstripped student sentiment, 48 per cent of the voters now wanting a third term, the increases have been in almost the same proportions. In January, 1939, 30 per cent of the U. S. voters approved, as compared with 28.2 of the students.

Although in this case it has been shown that college students follow the same trends of thought their elders do, other comparisons with American Institute of Public Opinion polls illustrate the fact that youth does not always agree with older people. Also, events to come, here and abroad, will have much to do in changing attitudes should the President decide to try his luck again.

Results of repeated interviewing of thousands of students disclose that many, although approving of Roosevelt as president, are against another four-year term. This opinion was typified in the comment of a student in Chicago's Central Y. M. C. A. College who said, "I am opposed to a third term because he would set a precedent for men who might be less scrupulous than he is, although I am in favor of him and his policies."

Letters to the Editor

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Why do people go to college? That is probably one of the least answered questions in circulation today. Some claim we come to college to better our economic possibilities. Others maintain that they want a broader knowledge of the arts and sciences. Whatever may be one's ultimate goal there are other things, which we call refinement, that we also have an opportunity to learn. Dignity, courtesy, honesty, respectability, reliability—the list is almost infinite—should be a part of everyone's personality.

Last week was Religious Emphasis Week on the College campus. The theme of the Rev. Kenneth Pope's speech on Wednesday was, "What have you got in college?" That theme was forcibly brought to the mind of the audience as they left the assembly room.

There is a group of students who insist upon using as a lounge the steps leading to the auditorium. It is considered not courteous to trample on others, step on others' fingers, or crawl over others. Those who left the assembly hall but one alternative—and that was to jump. Of course it would be most ungrateful to jump from the auditorium.

Would not it have been considerate of those sitting there to have given up their lounge long enough for the assembly group to have made its exit? The answer is quite obvious. "What have you got in college?"

High School Junior Class Meets Friday

Thirteen students of Horace Mann High School will take part in a Junior class assembly to be given next Friday. They are Marjorie Mitchell, Iota Westcott, Rita Tobin, Loren Workman, Earl Pope, Raymond Evans, Beula Horn, Lily Bell Silkwood, John Hengeler, James Carter, Eva Mae Huff, Ola Mae Lincoln, and Hazel Bratcher.

Assisting with the assembly are Mary Frances Barrock and Virgil Elliott, Junior class sponsors.

College Students Escape Injuries

Six men from the Quad at the College escaped injuries in an auto accident three miles west of Ravenwood last Friday. The men were en route home from the College. Ice and snow on the highway was blamed for the accident.

The men involved were Truman Robertson, driver of the car, Forrest Barnes, Elvis Sanders, and Robert Locke, all of Grant City; Robert Hoskins, Stanberry, and Eldon Snyder, Worth.

Great Lover of Naturalist Is National Parks

Kirkpatrick Speaks Before Students at Regular Assembly

Showing a series of color slides, Mr. R. A. Kirkpatrick, nationally-known lecturer and representative of the Union Pacific Railroad, addressed the regular assembly on Wednesday this week. Explaining the effects of erosion on the topography of a region, Mr. Kirkpatrick spoke of the Utah and Arizona National Parks.

"Nothing but a camera can get a true picture of the 'Painted Desert' because of the rapidly changing hues and colors of the landscape", Mr. Kirkpatrick stated. The painter finds it especially difficult to duplicate the scenes. In the Kaibab Plateau territory oxidizing iron ore produces the many colors which are exhibited as the sun's rays change during the day he continued.

Walls 4400 Feet High
In the Zion Canyon one can actually see stars while the sun is shining. On one occasion, Mr. Kirkpatrick made his way up the canyon to a point where he could touch both walls. There, where the walls towered 4400 feet above, it was pitch dark. Looking upward he could see stars as plainly as though it were night.

"The Kaibab National Forest is one of the few virgin stands of timber left in the United States", Mr. Kirkpatrick stated. This forest is the habitat of the Black squirrel. Nature provided this squirrel with a white, bushy tail which protects it from its enemies, especially when the ground is covered with snow.

Shifting from the Utah Wonders, Mr. Kirkpatrick took his audience to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona. He told of the measurement of erosion during the construction of Boulder Dam by the government engineers. It was found that 330 tons of sand per minute passed through the tunnels during the four and one-half years.

Canyon Is 29 Miles Wide
"That explains why the Grand Canyon is so tremendous", Mr. Kirkpatrick said. In some places the canyon is twenty-nine miles wide. Shells in the sand under each strata layer indicate that this region has been inundated by the ocean at least sixteen times he added.

In Brice Canyon Mr. Kirkpatrick stated that he hunted mountain lions with Zane Grey. They had been a book published relating their experiences on these expeditions.

Others on the assembly program were Tadrick Masters who read the scripture and the Varsity Quartet who sang two songs. Members of the quartet are Merrill Ostrus, Marlin Johnson, Leslie Somerville, Jr., and Robert Dunham.

Will Approve Grades Thursday Afternoon

There will be a meeting for the purpose of making applications for approved grades on county certificates in Room 224 at 5 o'clock, Thursday, February 8, according to R. E. Baldwin, registrar of the College. All students interested in obtaining approved grades on courses pursued during the present quarter should attend this meeting.

These thrilling, human, and hidden stories, will be dramatized in a special series of radio programs dedicated to the role played by universities in human progress. The series will be presented by the Columbia Broadcasting System in cooperation with the University of Chicago.

After an eight-week trial period last summer, the series, called "The Human Adventure," opens on CBS on February 4 for an indefinite number of broadcasts.

"The test last summer in 'The Human Adventure' series," says William B. Benton, vice-president of the University of Chicago and originator of the series, "indicated the vital interest of the American public in the work of our Universities. It also showed us what points in the program could be strengthened."

The opening program will tell the stories of Paul Ehrlich and Guglielmo Marconi. It will be titled "The Usefulness of Useless Knowledge."

Paul Ehrlich was fascinated by color. A scientist, his interest in color led him into research in the chemical constituents of different organic dyes. Eventually, his experiments with different combinations in this realm of chemistry brought him to a compound which he named 606. This turned out to be one of the first synthetic chemical compounds valuable in the treatment of a specific disease, in this case, syphilis.

The path which Ehrlich followed, according to Mr. Benton, is the most human of all paths open to man—the pursuit of knowledge for its own sake. The Universities of the world are devoted to that pursuit.

A Yale graduate, whose parents were both college teachers, Benton is former head of the advertising firm of Benton and Bowles, combining a reverence for academic achievement with great experience in the technique and potentialities of professional radio. Sherman Dryer, of the University of Chicago, is in charge of research and script writing. Brewster Morgan directs the programs for CBS, while Howard Barlow conducts the music.

In presenting "The Human Adventure," an "editor" acts as narrator and explains the background of the stories, which are dramatized in two scenes, to make for simplicity and clarity. Not only scientific researches, but literary, historical, musical, and linguistic adventures are described on the program.

More than 1000 university professors were interviewed by Sherman Dryer for the short series of eight programs heard last summer. Traveling by plane from one university to another, Dryer has collected more than 100 episodes of "The Human Adventure" suitable for future presentation. Each script is submitted to professors at Chicago specializing in the field with which the broadcast deals, so that all facts are checked by authorities.
